

Suggestion for White Russian:

While she is with passengers on the deck, a steward inquires the number of her cabin. She tells the first that comes into her head.

The radio news announces that a murder has been committed in steerage and that a suspect is wanted that tallies with the description of the stowaway.

She talks wistfully of her past and her parents.

She talks wistfully of her future and his future.