

You seem to be very interested in that young lady.

Naturally, under the circumstances.

Be careful. Your interest might go too far.

Not with her. As soon as we get to Honolulu, that will be the last I want to see of her.

You talk as though you positively hate her.

Oh, I don't hate the girl. There's nothing to hate about her. But she has a certain amount of intelligence for a youngster and only she doesn't quite know how to manage it.

I think she is doing very well with it up to now.

Clark: Hallo, O. I've been looking all over the boat for you, at least the Baroness [xxx] has.

I couldn't. She insisted that she was going to see you and went down to your cabin.

She didn't get in, I hope. She's there now. That's where I found her.

You found her in the cabin?

Yes.

Good heavens.

He jumps up and
