

Speech

The progress of nuclear civilization means speed

Speed much have space; however, there will be an explosion.
That is a law in physics.

It applies to the international problems confronting the world today. Man has developed speed. The automobile, the telephone and radio. But national prestige based upon [xxx] fear and greed has reduced that space by its fraudulent tariffs and [xxx] laws.

Speech

There is a fundamental law in progress.

These are my advocations: International law that will provide a freer world, unencumbered by barriers, nationalistic fears, a world of enlightenment where progress and science to give freer reign to the individual.

And not imprison him in a squirrel cage to keep in step with the local will, that foreign grounds beneath his feet and above his head.

Not to confine him to the treadmill of regimentation that forever grinds all around him.

No one owns the earth. We get six foot of it.

The laws of the body apply to the science of nations. Free circulation of the blood. Free.

Speech

[~~xxx~~]

Let all nations open their ports both to goods and men, that freer endeavors may unite the world in a greater understanding, a more secure peace. Bad circulation will destroy the body. The [xxx] will [xxx] all nations of the earth. Let us be enlightened by the advancement of science. It can destroy us, but it can enlighten us.

Speech

Confine not yourself to a prison, to the dictator of a regimented rule. Life was previously meant for the individual. Open the gates, pull down the bars of fear.
