

insulted my reason. Had they given other reasons more honest, more profound or intelligent, my antagonism would not have grown. But when we give ourselves all the moral virtue and conviction, all the vices, I revolt. I revolt because I am treated like an idiot and not allowed to think for myself. And, on top of all this, the most cynical and degenerative slogan was going around at a time when the Russians were our allies when they were fighting alone, millions of [xxx].

An expression so disgusting that its effect lowered the moral standard of the whole world: Let them both bleed white then we will step in at the bell.

26 years ago a brave new world was born that gave hope and inspiration to the common man. That world was Soviet Russia, imbued with a dream that would give its people, no matter what race or color, their natural rights to equal liberty, equal justice, and equal opportunity in the pursuit of food and shelter and the life beautiful. And, in spite of the ravages of war, that dream has become a reality, and grows more glorious year by year. Now that the agony of birth is at an end, may the beauty of its growth endure forever and ever.

The new system in Russia is tending towards a new and constructive idea, the complete socialization of the [xxx] of life. Its work is to be conscripted like the army, each serving his time on the farm or in the factory. A new system of educating prime facts, beginning lessons. Begin conscripting trades such as farming and feeding machines. This should be given back to rich and poor. Such post [xxx] in special mechanical techniques. After that post graduate course in all scientific branches.

The question is what to socialize [xxx] land, [xxx], and food.

The sequence of events that flow through the stream of cause and effect predetermines future events. The metaphysical concept of gambling is a desire to project events into future time and the material concept is a desire to profit by those events.

It is an individual self-preserving instinct that makes man take his destiny into his own hands and out of the hands of others.

That is why communism or any other paternal governments will always be in conflict with the profound existence of the individual.

that with this approach we can achieve much and gain new friendships among the nation. It will no doubt take a moral renaissance to accomplish this but we must first change our own moral concepts. The world has unfortunately morally deteriorated. We are beginning to realize that even the magnitude of power must adhere to human dignity and to those concepts and principles of justice and toleration.

We need to shed ourselves of cynical diplomacy, of the indiscriminate use of so-called western freedom. We must shed ourselves of the intolerance towards those nations whose revolutions do not suit us. In approaching these new nations, we must change our attitudes and rid ourselves of antagonism. We must approach the new world from a new point of view. We must abandon our sense of loss and look upon those revolutionaries as new tenants. I am firmly convinced that

The communist spirit is hypocritical. The psychology of the masses is not one of brotherly love. It is hero worship. To say that, when you are in a crowd you have the interest of everyone present is a falsehood.
