

Note

"Sentiment"

Sentiment is defined as an opinion or state of mind based on feeling rather than on reason. From this definition it is inferred that reason is rather thought to be superior to sentiment. Personally, I do not agree with this view. For the reason that without sentiment no matter how infallible, can create mischief. The most unfavorable aspect of sentiment is to add a mawkishness and weeping attitude to a false or an unworthy cause. The sentiment of war or the sentiment of peace are less harsh than the reason for war and the reason for peace.

Milton Sills