Note "Antagonism"

Growing antagonism born of the fact that I am a spiritual [xxx], and that during my career I had compressed a great deal in my works. Comedy had never quite condoned the status quo. I had and had always said that after a certain age I promised myself not to compromise, that I would express myself freely the truth as I saw it. I realize I was coming to a close of a career and that I had nothing further to protest. There's ever so much hypocrisy in the antagonism towards communism, so much heaped up dismay at their [xxx], as though
