

Who can foretell what one is going to do in this life. I have no intention of giving up anything until I give up my last breath. I seldom make plans because I never look so far ahead.